

Residence and Meal Plans

A home away from home

For many students, a well-rounded university experience includes living in residence.

There are a variety of options available, from traditional dorms to modern suite style rooms, so you're sure to find exactly what you're looking for. Depending on the campus, UNB offers a variety of options from co-ed to all female to all male residences.

Your residence fees include living expenses like your room, heating, high speed Internet service as well as all your meals.

Residence life at the University of New Brunswick provides a warm, welcoming community that feels like home. People from many different walks of life come together to create a unique support network.

There are opportunities to meet people from around the world, form study groups with peers, and make meaningful, lifelong friendships.

Modern convenient dining

University life is busy. Between classes, studying and hanging out with friends, it can be hard to find the time to cook. That's where meal plans comes in.

UNB offers meal plans with flexibility to meet whatever needs you might have. Meal plans are included with residence fees. If you're living off campus but plan to be around most of the day, you can still sign up for a meal plan that suits your needs.

UNB's meal halls have a variety of options to suit a mix of dietary habits. Everything from tofu to international cuisine to traditional sandwiches and salads are offered, as well as snack foods like burgers and fries.

Meal plans can be used at different retail food outlets throughout campus such as Tim Horton's on either the Fredericton or Saint John campuses.
